A. Core commitments

These four commitments are our core (Please carefully read what these commitments mean particularly in our context. It can be misleading as we have adopted these terminologies from other places, however, our interpretation can be very different and adapted to our context.

1. Commitment to Personal Transformation:

I will work to understand & continuously stay connected with 'why am I doing what I am doing'. Continuously evolving my 'big why'. Continuously connecting what I am doing everyday with my 'big why'.

2. Commitment to collective action:

I will align my plans and actions to the priorities of other stakeholders. I will understand how the ownership of more individuals changes the scale of achievement and impact, and accordingly focus on building more resources and ownership behind my goals. For every task I expect from any stakeholder, make a moment-to-moment analysis of their clarity, confidence, motivation (CCM). Take actions/provide support accordingly. Seek help if I need support for assessment and support strategy.

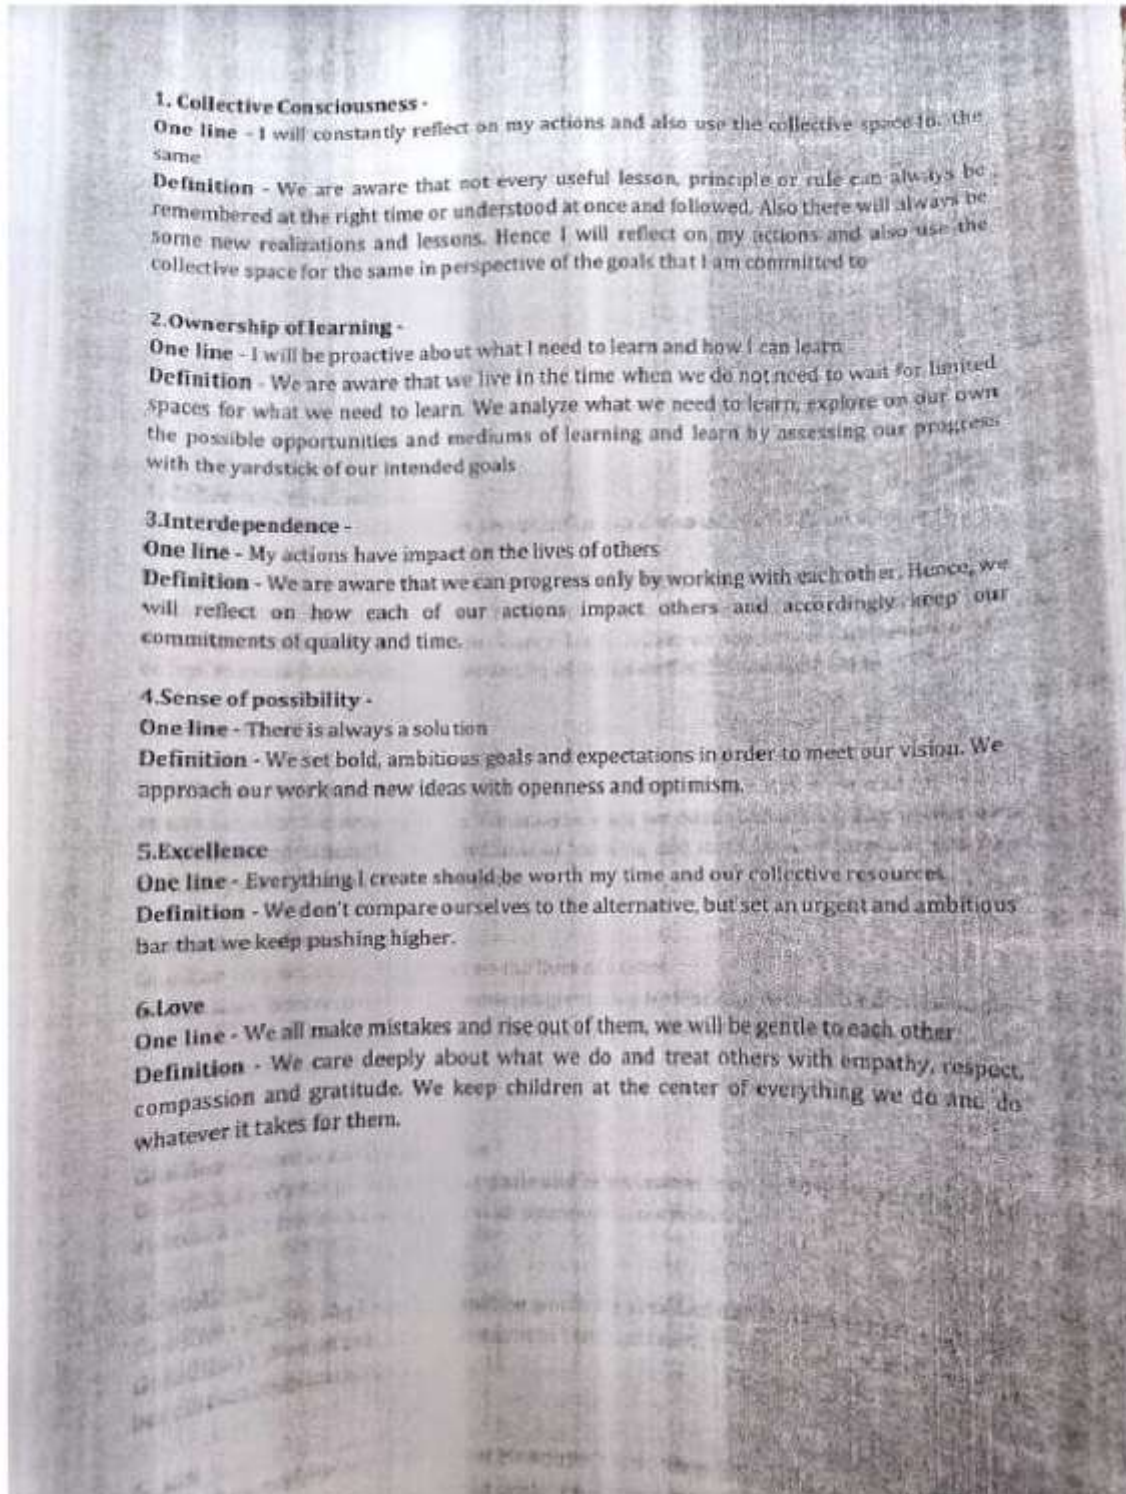

3. Commitment for education equity:

Leveraging opportunities to understand best pedagogical practices, stages of development and realities and needs of my students. Planning & executing best learning experiences for my people at different levels, using collectively set standards of best learning experiences. Reflect on how my approach is enabling.

4. Commitment to excellence and accountability:

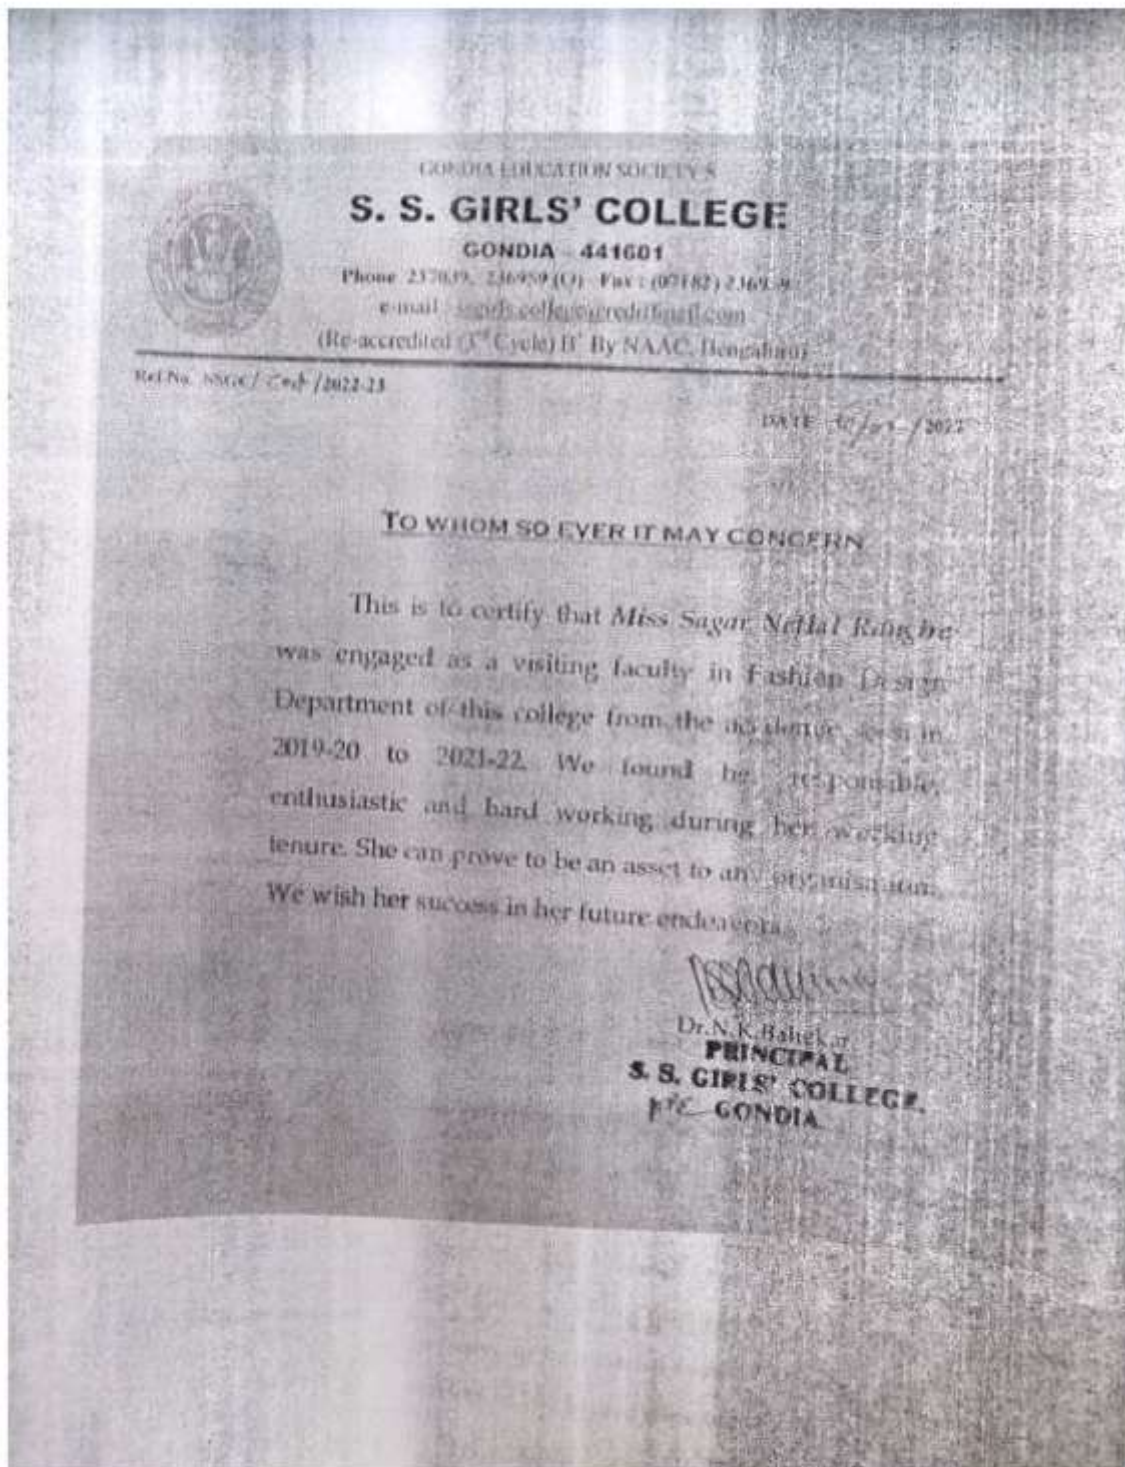

Being a leader, no matter whose task it is, the responsibility is always mine if I am connected to that task. I will be continuously aware of my tasks, deadlines and quality standards. When I am stuck for any reason (external factors, my skills or motivation), I will share and I will seek help.
